The Alameda arrived and anchored off port between 6 and 7 o'clock last evening. Six passengers and the mails were sent ashore in the pilot boat. The Alameda did not care to come into port so that about a hundred tons of freight for Honolulu was taken on to San Francisco as in the case of the Moana. The Alameda sailed at about midnight, taking a large amount of mail from this port for San Francisco.

Famous Waialuku Suit.

Waialuku, Jan. 31.—After sitting for five days to hear the case of the Waialuku Sugar Company vs. Solomon Hale, ejectment, Judge Kalua discovered from the evidence produced in court yesterday that he was disqualified from further hearing of the case as he was attorney for Solomon Hale, as contestant in the probate of the estate of Kauhahu in 1880, and Hale, as contestant in the very estate from which the Waialuku Plantation is now seeking to eject him.

Two witnesses had already testified for the plaintiff corporation and six have testified for the defendant, and the plaintiff was to bring in about four witnesses in rebuttal when the case was brought to this untimely termination. The clerk had already written down about 100 sheets of Blackstone legal cap filled with the evidence in the case and there were about two dozen exhibits filed by either party showing their respective titles to the land in question.

The counsels for the respective parties have agreed to file a stipulation referring the case back to the June term 1900 of this court before a special judge who will be sent from Honolulu to hear cases in which the presiding judge is disqualified.

The property involved by this suit is less than an acre, value about $300, but it has cost defendant much over that amount in attorneys' fees already. However, it is "principle" that he is fighting for. Hons. Coke & Richardson for defendant. A. N. Kepolikai for plaintiff.
